RUN NO. 56 REPORT HARDARSE's & WATER RAT's 'ON BACK YET AGAIN' RUN

HARDARSE (AND WATER RAT) – "THE LONGEST RUN IN THE SMALLEST AREA IN THE HISTORY OF DILI HASH"

Being a homebody (or just "The Body" to some), HARDARSE was reluctant to venture too far from the luxury of home in setting this particular run, hence the "longest run in the smallest area". (The HARDARSE Homely Hovel – HHH - being a small hovel in Pantai Kelapa, or "Coconut Beach" to the illiter8- Where was the beach??). The warm and fuzzy side of the run (i.e. social affairs and the food affairs) being given a higher priority than was normally the case with Hash, and besides she was afraid she would get lost (having set the run the previous day - funny, she doesn't look blonde!!). Maybe she was just colour blind, short sighted, or cock eyed, like HAIDROLIK, SCRUBBER, and many other runners, who couldn't see the yellow painted dots marking the trail from the green, different shaped leaves.

Anyway, WATER RAT went with the runners to the right (he's always right!!) and HARDARSE was to lead the walkers in the other direction, any direction just as long as it was away from the angry dogs. Just before the bridge the walkers heard the constant bleating of a baby goat and saw it tangled in a bush. A few walkers stopped to rescue it and the rescuer was rewarded with a down down. Through there were three Hash Hold Checks, HARDARSE missed the first and so the walkers reached the second HC before the runners. Some SMART ARSES (mates of HARDARSE) claimed they heard WATER RAT telling HARDARSE "Now don't forget, skip the bridge and get to the Church on time". A lass, the church was not yet open for business, (THANKS BE TO GOD, says WHAT A RAT).

Meanwhile the runners had run around in ever increasing circles exploring suburbia in Pantai Kelapa. Blood was drawn very early from the knee of some who should remain nameless after a number of runners disappeared through a hole in the fence like rats up a drain pipe only to hear the dreaded "ON BACK" following them through the hole from beyond some bemused local's kitchen. A short regrouping at the first HC wondering where the walkers were was followed by a pleasant run along the riverside to the church.

Beyond the Church the runners headed towards the beach, but also a lass and a lass again (I wish), the trail to the beach proved to be a falsie. Not that many runners would have noticed the beach, they didn't notice anything else on the way, LIKE THE BIG YELLOW HASH HC SIGN PAINTED ON THE FENCE!!. The excuses from the BROWNEYE and other FRBs came thick and hard after having their attention called to the HC, much the same as the brains of FRBs some may say. From that point the run was a long(ish), straight(ish), flat(ish) run home.

MEANWHILE, under the guidance of HARDARSE, the walkers had become disoriented and missed the turnoff home and ended up detouring through the banana grove, got lost again and arrived home after the runners. The walk through the grove was very pleasant as the only sounds that could be heard were the padding of feet and the chirping of birds getting ready to nest (unedited!!), is this what HASH has degenerated to?? Short runs, good deeds, digestible food and nature commentaries along the way).

As always, this run too was considered a SHIT RUN, but the runners were panting at the end - so it had to be a GOOD RUN.

SHORT BUT SWEET HARDARSE!

TRUTH

Considering the length compare with the area covered it was quite a good run by Hash standards (which are very low).

The same could be said about the report but what about the thirteen times the Hares' names are mentioned against only three times for other Hashers!

CIRCLE CIRCUS

The rural setting of the grounds of a splendid mansion in Pantai Kelapa was the venue for this week's Circle for another large turn out of runners and walkers. With acting GM SCRUBBER making the most of his rare opportunity to inflict penalties on the gathered delinquents.

DRIBBLER wasted no time in taking up his usual position at the top of the down down count, though he did waste some more beer along the way. BROWNEYE was, once again, prominent in giving and receiving charges and HARDARSE made sure that she was going to get her fair share on her own turf - aided in the attempt by WATER RAT who passed on most of his charges to her also. Even the a/GM SCRUBBER was on the receiving end of several.

It was good to see a few old faces back again after varying length absences. Just goes to show that no one takes too seriously anything said or done at a Hash gathering.

Roger was champing at the bit to get his Hash name after his five runs and he was still smiling after the unanimous, Hashocratic decision on his new name was made. Or was that a shocked grimace on his face? It was noted however that another prominent Hashman was on his sixth run without a peep out of him. He is a lawyer by profession so there's food for a good name there!

Still no POTW vessel. The departing GM DIAK KALI promised to get it to the new GM WEE WILLIE on Monday before he left the country. We will have to wait until next week to find out if he did or not because WEE WILLIE went off on holiday during the week also! There's a down down or two in there somewhere!

Anyway, last week's recipient, Col, decided to give up the honour, if not the mug, to current down down king, DRIBBLER. A very popular decision.
