RUN NO. 87 – NUMATIK, VACUUM & SUCTION's JESUS STATUE JAUNT

It was nice to see such a good turnout (30) considering all the parties and heavy drinking that had been going on during the week. But, of course, little impediments like that wouldn't stop real Hashmen.

There were actually fourteen runners and sixteen walkers but the walking and running packs were perfectly equally divided since Mr & Mrs ENEMA decided to be permanent beer minders this week.

After the directions were given the two packs took off in opposite directions, the walkers strolling along the main road back towards Dili and the runners heading along the car park towards the washed out road around the headland.

The walk started out relatively calmly, with a gentle stroll along the road followed by a little detour up to the first Hold Check which was on a small hill off to the left. But on the return CATSPISS decided to liven up proceeding by taking a short cut down a very steep drop straight back to the road instead of following NUMATIK's directions.

GOLDEN SHOWER, who was in his usual position way out in front of the pack, tried to lead everyone back to Dili. He was so enthusiastic he thought he'd try out the runners' trail.

Then it was On Back to the start and On Up to the top of the Jesus Statue. For some of the walkers this was even more tiring than their weekly shopping trip to Hello Mister. MARIO, for example, just could not muster the energy to climb the last flight of stairs so he thought he'd try something new and crawl up, but from where the pack were watching it looked like he was just praying really hard.

The top of the Jesus Statue hill was to be the Hold Check rendezvous with the runners. But where were they?

The two trails had been meticulously timed to have both packs arriving simultaneously at the statue. However some of the lady runners (male and female – GOLDEN TRIANGLE, LASHER & RAMROD) had trouble crossing a minor obstacle, in the form of a little washout, while rounding the headland. Their slowness also held up a group of locals who were waiting to run across with their bicycles on their shoulders!

Of course, a little obstacle like that couldn't stop Hashers with real ingenuity like PHARTA & COITUS. They took a 'short cut' round it! Up the vertical face of the hill along the precipitous cliff face and then down another vertical drop much worse than the one they were avoiding. At least the rest of us had time for a rest break while this 'show' was going on.

The runners then had a gentle jog along the 'land mine' beach where some thoughtful sunbathers had rearranged the check-it-outs. However all made it to the next Hold Check though some of the ladies (including SUCTION & PHARTA) were so nackered that they were glad to take advantage of the 'official' shortcut when it was offered on the way back while the real Hashmen like WEE WILLIE were jumping at the chance to follow check-it-outs up extremely steep tracks.

By the time the pack had slowly crawled up to the statue to meet the walkers a few had decided to desert the runners and join them for Part B of the trails.

This time the packs switched sides of the mountain though only five walkers followed NUMATIK on the official trail. They claimed they missed the turnoff halfway down the steps. (Hard to believe!) The valiant five did a small loop of the beach and then were supposed to head back up the same track back to the steps but GOLDEN SHOWER & MARIO thought they would be clever and go around the headland instead. But their nerves failed them at the washout which had held up the runners so they ended up taking an extra long cut which, guess what, included the track they should have used in the first place.

The On On for the runners, who now included SEXON who had just arrived after her run from Dili, was all the way down the steps and along the road generally following the walkers Part A but with a few check-it-outs up the vertical cliff face along the road. Once again the real Hashmen, this time in the form of Doug, were up to the challenge and disappeared from view for some time until the On Back was called.

Naturally the Hold Check for these finely tuned athletes was on a considerably higher hill than for the walkers. But, to their credit, not only did they cheerfully struggle up the slope, they actually checked-it-out even further up the hill!

But Hares are human after all and so it was On Down the long way round back to the road and the gentle jog On Home where ENEMA had the freshest, coldest, welcomest beer in town, with our names on, waiting for us.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!! HAPPY NEW YEAR!! HAPPY NEW YEAR!! HAPPY NEW YEAR!!

CIRCLE CIRCUS

A respectable turnout considering it was Christmas Eve with the usual competing attractions such as recovering from hangovers and extra log siestas.

The GM wasn't in a hurry again this week so the Circle went along comfortably at its own pace with most participants having a visit to their knees at some time or other.

Newbie Graham took the down down honours by virtue of all his voluntary additional visits to the centre of the Circle. Could drinking from your shoes be addictive?

Pharta was close behind and also gained bonus points for picking up the big one. Last week's holder of the POTW was not so much concerned with who got it this week as he was with making sure it was not someone who would use it at the Dengue Bar at his expense.

Three appropriate namings were carried out in the Naming Guru's usual precise style and included the creation of another DH3 family dynasty. This time of the fluid pressure variety.

The Christmas Dinner of the Year with the eating, drinking ...

... and the singing.

CHARGES FROM THE CIRCLE

No Charges for the Circle BOX OFFICE, SALSA TOWN BIKE charged DUTCH OVEN for 'No Hash Gear'
COITUS charged Mike for stealing the POTW vessel from him during the week

SUCTION charged HAI DROLIK) for trying to kill them with exercise VACUUM charged NUMATIK) within one day or arriving in ET
NUMATIK charged CATSPISS for trying to take the walkers the wrong way
Darryl charged COITUS for making the run look hard by perspiring so much
Doug charged GM for letting SEXON go early last week but keeping him so late that he missed his appointment
LESBEAU charged ENEMA for saying that Fosters tasted like Labatts
Mike charged PUMPER for saying 'Hi'

Graham charged Graham for another chance to drink out of his shoe

NEW NAMES Nicola becomes LASHER as a result of her fetishes
Kimberly becomes VACUUM for being so quiet and mysterious
Samantha becomes SUCTION for her limpet-like tenacity

POTW PHARTA for modifying his behaviour just because his fiancé has come to visit him (and also to give the Dengue Bar a break!)

*An American, an Australian and a Timorese went into a restaurant in Dili. The waiter said, "Excuse me, but if you wanted a steak you might not get one as there is a shortage."
The American said, "What's a shortage?"
The Timorese said, "What's a steak?"
The Australian said, "What's excuse me?"
The best way to remember your wife's birthday is to forget it once.*

*A little farm boy comes down to breakfast when his mother asks if he's done his chores.
"Not yet," quips the boy, to which his mother replies, no chores, no breakfast. Pissed off, while feeding the chickens he kicks a chicken. And while milking the cows, he kicks a cow. And feeding the pigs, he kicks a pig. Returning, his mother gives him a bowl of dry cereal. "Where's the milk? And where's me bacon and eggs?" he asks.
"Well," his mother says, "I saw you kick a chicken, so you don't get any eggs. And for kicking the pig, no bacon. Likewise, for what you did to the cow, no milk."
Just then, his father comes down for breakfast and kicks the cat.
The little boy looks up at his mum and says, "Are you going to tell him, or can I?"*
